MOTHERS WILL BE GUESTS AT G-BURG COLLEGE

First Annual Observance of "Mothers and Sons" Day, Saturday, Sunday.

Gettysburg College students, administration officials and faculty members will pay tribute to the mothers of sons and daughters attending the local institution on Saturday and Sunday, in the first annual "Mothers and Sons" day program ever inaugurated here.

From practically every state along the Atlantic coast will come the mothers of the young men and young women attending Gettysburg, to be the guests of the college, and they will revel in the glory that is their children's, entertained, fêted and feasted in token of their mother love—the students' expression of appreciation and the esteem in which their mothers are held.

Saturday's program is replete with entertainment, from a tea and reception at the "White House," the official home of President and Mrs. H. W. A. Hanson, to a baseball game, review of the R. O. T. C. unit, and banquet in the evening.

Honor Mothers
While the nation officially observed Sunday as "Mothers' Day," Gettysburg College, in its own fashion, and bearing the dignity befitting an occasion attending a college affair, will respond to the magnetic influence of mother appeal, fuse educational tendencies with amusing recreation and honor those held most dear.

More than 200 mothers have thus far accepted the invitations of their son or daughter to attend the first annual observance and it is confidently expected by the committee in charge that the list will be greatly swelled when the appointed hour arrives.

The festivities open Saturday morning at nine o'clock with the mothers registering at the College Y. M. C. A. Immediately following registration, the mothers will visit the various classes of college.

At one o'clock the R. O. T. C. unit will stage a competitive drill and pass in review before the mothers.

At one-thirty o'clock Doctor and Mrs. H. W. A. Hanson will play host and hostess to the mothers at a tea and reception in the campus "White House."

At 2:15 o'clock the visiting mothers will be guests at the baseball game between Gettysburg College and Western Maryland on Nixon field.

Two Banquets
At five o'clock, two banquets, held simultaneously, will open in the Eagle Hotel and the Hoffman House. Because of the large number of reservations already received, the committee in charge of the affair was forced to schedule two banquets. The program at each affair will be the same, with the speakers and entertainers appearing in the two dining rooms.

President of the college, Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, will be the principal speaker. Dr. H. M. Valentine, of the Bible department, and Dr. G. D. Stahley, retired, will act as toastmasters at the Hoffman House and Eagle Hotel respectively.

Two college orchestras will render special selections and group singing will play a prominent part in the programs.

Doctor Hanson represents the administration Dr. C. F. Sanders, representative of the faculty.

CLEAN-UP DAY IN GETTYSBURG

Wednesday, May 20. Set Aside by Borough Health Officer For General Cleaning Day.

Wednesday, May 20, will be Clean-up Day in Gettysburg, it was announced this morning by Erle Deardorff, borough health officer.

On that day, there will be a drive against dirt and rubbish, which has collected in fence corners, garrets and cellars over the winter months, and the health officer has expressed the hope that every resident of Gettysburg will assist in making the coming Clean-up Day the most effective ever staged here.

Everything in the line of rubbish and debris, with the exception of ashes, will be taken away by the borough's wagons, which will cover every alley and those streets which have no alleys on that day. Residents are urged to have their rubbish in boxes, barrels or crates, as loose piles of debris will not be taken up by the collectors.

In order to make Clean-up Day a success, residents are urged to start several days ahead of May 20, collect all dirt, rubbish, filth and debris, which might have collected, and have it ready in suitable receptacles for the one trip the collectors will make over town.

The collection of rubbish will start promptly at 7 o'clock on the morning of May 20, and all receptacles should be out by that time. Where alleys are in the rear of premises, residents are urged to place their rubbish there, and those residents, whose properties do not have alleys, are urged to place the receptacles in front of their homes, where they can be procured by the collectors.

BULLETS LOSE GAME BY FORFEIT

Gettysburg's Victory Over McSherrystown Is Forfeited; Manager Oyler Ineligible To Play.

Gettysburg's 14 to 6 victory over McSherrystown at the Playground lot last Saturday was forfeited to McSherrystown 9 to 0. Player-manager Paul A. Oyler was declared ineligible to play in further games in the league, the directors of the Gettysburg club were reprimanded and censured for infractions of the league's rules and by-laws, and Gettysburg's membership in the league was threatened by the directors of the Adams County League in special session Wednesday evening at the Hotel Gettysburg.

As a result of the decision of the directors of the league, Gettysburg now occupies the cellar position with no games won and two games lost in the two first tilts of the 28 game schedule, instead of sharing third place honors with three other members of the league.

Three Leaders
McSherrystown now divides the top position with Arendtsville and New Oxford with a clean slate of two victories, one credited by their first victory over Gettysburg in the opening contest, the second by virtue of the forfeited contest of last Saturday.

In addition to the action taken against the Gettysburg club, the directors adopted a re-classification of the "Class Man" clause in the by-laws to read, "Any man whether under contract or not, who has played in two or more games of class baseball, is ineligible to play in the Adams County League." This decision automatically bars Curtis Smith from further participation in league games.

The directors of the league faced one of the warmest sessions they have held since the league was organized, when President Nary called the meeting to order Wednesday evening.

The contention arose when Manager Oyler's contract was declared null and void, interpreting the local pilot as a "class man" and ineligible to play in the league.

Played 12 Games

The directors of the local club presented a copy of the 1920 official baseball guide in which Smith, listed as a shortstop with Hanover, was credited with playing twelve games in the Blue Ridge League. This followed McSherrystown's presentation of an affidavit signed by Smith and made before a notary public that he had never signed a Hanover contract.

Secretary Diem of the league presented a motion redefining class men in the league. With the adoption of this motion Smith was declared ineligible.

Rev. F. Kirshner, of McSherrystown, moved to withdraw the affidavit of Smith that he had not signed a contract, which was objected to by the Gettysburg directors pending further investigation of Smith's affiliation with the Blue Ridge League. The Gettysburg directors announced that this was done in view of the forfeit of last Saturday's contest.

Dog's Loyalty to Soldier Retold By Town's Native Son

Came a son of Gettysburg back to visit his native heath and haunts during the 28th annual convention of the state council of the Knights of Columbus, which closed late Wednesday afternoon.

This native son, John A. Stock, now residing at Clearfield, a son of the late Andrew Stock, is a brother of P. C. Stock, Baltimore street. He also is an uncle of the Rev. Father Mark E. Stock, rector at St. Francis Xavier church.

Although he has lived and worked at Clearfield for more than 40 years, Mr. Stock enjoys returning to Gettysburg, renewing old acquaintances and making new ones, which he said he did during the past state convention.

Mr. Stock was nine years old, an impressionable age, when the Battle of Gettysburg was fought, and with a recollection as clear as at that time, more than 60 years ago, when Blue and Grey swarmed through the town and fought the decisive battle of the Civil War, he vividly tells of that strenuous time.

To a group of interested friends, Wednesday afternoon, while the convention tellers were making their

MEMORIAL LANE TREES REPLACED

Two hundred and fifty trees of the Memorial way, along the Lincoln Highway from Wrightsville to a point near Abbottstown, which died during the past year, have been replaced, this spring by the World War Memorial and Tribute Tree Association of York county. There are about 1,400 trees in the Memorial, stretching on either side of the Lincoln Highway throughout York county. Those in charge of the planting have experienced great difficulty in getting red oak and sugar maple trees started. This year, in order to stand an even chance to get them to grow, the association has planted much smaller trees of these two varieties. There was not an elm tree replaced, showing that the soil is more adapted to promote the healthy growth of elm trees than to red oaks. The latter tree, it appears, is more adapted to woods and acid soil, and not to cultivated land.

Roy Strook, president of the Andhra Christian College in India, delivered a lecture on the subject, "Village Life and Mission Work in India," but was unable to use his stereopticon slides as the machine he uses to project them was out of order. The Rev. A. M. Hollinger, pastor of the West Mainheim charge, conducted the devotional service.

NEW AMBULANCE READY IN JUNE

Conveyance Is Modern Machine and Will be Available For All Hospital Purposes.

Gettysburg's new ambulance, now being built at a Hanover wagon factory, will be delivered to the Gettysburg fire company about the middle of June, it was reported at the monthly meeting of the local department at the engine house Wednesday evening.

The conveyance, which will be available at all times to respond to calls in any part of the county, at a nominal charge, will be the "last word" in ambulance construction, being built over lines approved by physicians and surgeons acquainted with the needs of Gettysburg and Adams county.

The body of the ambulance is mounted on a substantial chassis, and with care should last for many years, said Chief Aumen. The machine will be available for conveying patients not only to the Warner hospital here, but to any hospital outside Adams county.

A number of pledges and subscriptions toward the ambulance fund are still outstanding, and persons who are indebted to the ambulance committee are urged by D. C. Stallsmith, chairman of the committee to pay up their pledges at once.

Motorize Truck

The committee on ladder equipment reported that the hook and ladder truck, recently purchased from a Hanover fire company, would be motorized in the near future.

Dr. J. McCrea Dickson, Ralph Stoner, Donald Culp and Lawrence Sheads were elected to membership in the company, and the application of Paul Hampton for membership was received.

Fire Chief James B. Aumen announced a practice fire drill on Friday evening, May 15, at 6:30 o'clock, and thereafter on the first and third Fridays of each month during the summer.

The picture show committee reported receipts of $230 from the recent benefit movie. D. C. Stallsmith, George D. March, Wilbur Stallsmith, William G. Weaver and James B. Aumen were named on a committee to arrange for a food sale.

STOCK REPORT

(By Associated Press.)

New York, May 14.—Responding to a series of favorable dividend announcements stock prices worked moderately higher at the opening of today's market. Shares of the soft coal carriers were in demand, but other rail issues pursued a downward trend. The underlying strength of the market was well sustained throughout the morning. Copper shares gathered strength. Sugars and food shares continued to attract some buying orders. Call money opened at three and three fourths per cent.

The afternoon session, which was protracted owing to the necessity of another ballot for the positions of treasurer and warden, did not adjourn finally until after 6 o'clock. Results of the vote of delegates to the national convention were not available until shortly before 7 o'clock.

Establish Scholarship.
One of the most note-worthy items of business transacted just before the convention adjourned was the unanimous adoption of a resolution setting aside annually $2,000 for the establishment of a scholarship in "Boys' Guidance," at Notre Dame University, to be known as the "Pennsylvania Knights of Columbus Scholarship."

The idea of the scholarship followed the presentation of the report of Leo G. Griffith, Pittsburgh, retiring state deputy, in which he embodied a plea for the establishment of such a course, the graduating of which are to work among boys, linking up their activities with the Boy Scout movement.

Thank Community.
Before adjourning Wednesday afternoon, the delegates unanimously adopted another resolution thanking all persons who had contributed in any way toward the success of the annual convention. This resolution, in full, follows:

"Resolved: That the Pennsylvania State Council in convention assembled hereby expresses its sincere thanks to all persons and organizations who have contributed so splendidly to the great success of this convention and to the excellent comfort and entertainment and enlightenment of the delegates and guests and that we further express our special indebtedness and gratitude to the Rt. Reverend Philip R. McDewitt, Bishop of Harrisburg; Reverend Mark E. Stock, pastor of St. Francis Xavier church; the Rev. Dr. Peter Guiday, of the Catholic University; the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. Tierney, Mt. St. Mary's Seminary, Emmitsburg; Hon. Albert C. Ritchie, Governor of Maryland; the citizens of Gettysburg and their representative, Hon. Donald P. McPherson; District Deputy Frank V. Kasel; Grand Knight William McSherry, of Gettysburg; council; Edgar P. Hamilton, chairman of reservations and publicity committees, the St. Mary's Industrial Band, Baltimore, Maryland; the Gonzaga Paradise Protectorate Band, of Abbottstown, the Gettysburg Band and The Gettysburg Times.

"Be it further resolved that the secretary be instructed to convey to those persons and organizations named a copy of this resolution."

Griffith Expresses Thanks
Before returning to his home in Pittsburgh today, the immediate Past State Deputy Mr. Griffith reiterated what the convention had embodied in its resolution with regard to extending thanks to residents and organizations of Gettysburg, which had contributed so greatly to the unqualified success of the convention.

What State Deputy Griffith said was re-echoed by many of the other delegates, who said they had enjoyed their stay in Gettysburg to the utmost. They gave praise to their hotel accommodations and persons who helped make them comfortable during their visit.

The decorators, who last week trimmed Gettysburg in the national colors by the use of a profusion of American flags and red, white and blue bunting, today began to dismantle the various buildings in the center of town, which had presented a gala appearance while the convention was in progress.

LIQUOR PRICE DROPS IN WEST

(By Associated Press.) New York, May 14.—The price of liquor, going up in New York, is going down in California. The reason is the dry navy's blockade of the east coast rum row. Many of the ships unable to do business here have sailed for the Pacific where customers are reported bringing loads ashore without difficulty, regularly.

Some estimates placed the value of whiskey landed in and around San Diego within the past 48 hours at more than $100,000. As a result the bottom has fallen out of the gin market in California. Scotch is reported to be selling for $4 a quart in Los Angeles.

Aged Man To Serve Term For Bigamy

(By Associated Press.) New York, May 14.—Virginius St. Julian Mayo, 66-year-old New Haven, Connecticut, radiator manufacturer, who was convicted of bigamy in 1922, surrendered today in preparation for serving a prison sentence of from one to three years in Sing Sing.

Mayo first gained public notice in 1915, when Lillian Cook, a 16-year-old stenographer, committed suicide. Testifying in his own defense at the bigamy trial, Mayo denied intimacy with the girl.

SPORTSMEN WILL MEET ON FRIDAY

Meeting Will be Held in Chamber Office, to Improve Hunting and Fishing Conditions.

An open meeting and conference of local sportsmen interested in improving conditions will be held at 8 o'clock Friday night, May 15, at the Chamber of Commerce office. All hunters and fishermen are asked to attend with their friends.

The meeting will be under the direction of the Central Pennsylvania Fish and Game Conservation Association which has a membership within a radius of fifty miles of Harrisburg of 3500 hunters and fishermen.

There will be no solicitation of funds at this meeting, it is stated. This organization is said to be working to improve conditions, to restock, to protect, to stop illegal practices, to cooperate with the farmer by offering a liberal reward for the arrest and conviction of any one who destroys property while on a farmer's lands; to stand for reforestation and for fire protection of forests; it is against pollution of streams.

While the organization is not connected with any federal or state commission it does get a great deal of cooperation from these bodies, officials say.

As an illustration, the association secured a whole carload of fish last Friday from United States hatcheries at Edwin, Tennessee, and these were divided among the fishermen and placed in various stream near points where there are members. Last fall two such car loads were put out. The fish are not purchased, but it is quite expensive to pay transportation.

Representatives of this association will be at the meeting Friday night and explain more fully the scope and work of the organization.

J. L. Taylor, Carlisle street, who is a local member of this association, received a box of pheasant eggs which will be handled under the direction of a practical sportsman who will see that they are properly cared for and placed.

PROTECT WOMEN NATIONS URGED

Council in Convention at Washington Also Objects to Blocs on Sex Lines; Many Present.

Washington, May 14.—Without debate, the convention of the International Council of Women Tuesday adopted a resolution urging women in countries which have not ratified the 1921 convention of Geneva for the protection of women and children to use their influence to obtain ratification.

Resolutions urging that measures be taken "for the suppression of such newspaper advertisements as are calculated to incite immoral behavior" and advocating maintenance of women police with the same status and responsibilities as men also were adopted.

After extended discussion in which several countries were joined in opposition to any attempt to form women's political blocs, the council passed this resolution:

"That in order to get the best results from their voting power, women, when they are enfranchised, should join political parties, and should form groups within their own parties for the discussion of the special woman's point of view on all political questions and through which they can unite to influence them."

A clause which would have recorded the council as favoring political groups to further the special interests of women was eliminated, and an attempt to recommit the resolution to the suffrage committee for a further study was lost by a vote of 114 to 177, the Americans lining up against shelving it.

RUM-RUNNERS FLEE RUM-ROW

Bargain Prices of $12 a Case Is Offered Nova Scotians With Champagne Correspondingly Lower.

New York, May 14.—With a business that has approached $40,000,000 a year smashed by the dry navy's blockade, whiskey ships fleeing the Atlantic seaboard are beginning to offer their cargoes in foreign ports at bargain rates.

Up in Nova Scotia whence have come many of the craft that have sold liquor for thirsty New Yorkers in the last four years, liquor could be bought cheaply from two schooners if the Canadian authorities would permit it. Whiskey was offered on board Monday at $12 a case and champagne at correspondingly low rates.

In the annual report of the Department of Commerce published Tuesday Secretary Hoover in statistics on the country's foreign trade last year gives $40,000,000 as an estimate of the cost of bootleg foreign liquor. Officials connected with the custom service are said to regard this as a low estimate.

Fog has failed to aid the die-hards of the rum-fleet that still lingers off New York. No running of the blockade has been reported during two days of heavy mists. To prevent the fog helping rum-row the dry navy sent out 14 additional armed craft.

ANNOUNCE CUT IN U. S. BUDGET

$108,000,000 Saving Is Forecast; Director Lord Informs Coolidge of Surplus Due June 30.

Washington, May 14.—Director Lord, of the budget bureau, told President Coolidge Tuesday he was confident there would be a government surplus for the fiscal year ending June 30 of $108,000,000—the amount by which the executive has been hoping receipts will exceed expenditures.

This estimate by the director greatly exceeds his prediction, made last autumn, of a $67,000,000 surplus. He attributed the increase to heavier revenue returns, and receipts of the postoffice department.

Looking ahead to the coming fiscal year, the budget director predicted a surplus of $373,000,000, the figure on which administration and congressional leaders are basing their estimates as to the possible extent of tax reductions.

Director Lord told Mr. Coolidge the government's example in curtailing expenditures is being reflected in various states. He returned to Washington Tuesday from a trip to New England, and expects to go into Indiana and Illinois later this week, explaining the federal government plans for reducing expenses.

Hope for future tax reduction now lies principally with the states and municipalities, the director said, pointing out that two-thirds of the tax burden is due to their levies.

MALTA KNIGHTS IN CONVENTION

Williamsport, Pa., May 14.—About 1000 Knights of Malta and their ladies attended the opening session of the thirty-third convocation of the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania in this city Tuesday morning. Mayor Hugh Gilmore extended a welcome on behalf of the city and the grand commander, William P. Kuhn, of this city, responded.

The grand commander's report, submitted Tuesday, showed 267 commanderies in the state and in that section of Maryland under the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania and Grand Commandery. The total membership was reported at 50,807.

The election of officers were held Wednesday morning and the annual commandery parade was held Wednesday afternoon.

A full ritualistic memorial service was held at noon Tuesday in charge of the grand prelate, the Rev. C. S. Miller, followed by a meeting of the Malta Home Association.

MIDDIES MUST TAKE TO AIR

Secretary Wilbur Says Aviation Course Will Not Be Merely Theoretical, But Practical.

Washington, May 14.—"I want it clearly understood that the aviation instruction given to midshipmen at the Naval Academy under the order recently promulgated will include actual flying. It will not be confined to theoretical instructions and ground-work in aeronautics."

This announcement was made Tuesday by Curtis D. Wilbur, Secretary of the Navy, following a conference with Rear-Admiral Nulton, superintendent of the Naval Academy.

Secretary Wilbur added that all the details had not been worked out, but rapid progress was being made in this direction. While appreciating the value of a thorough knowledge of the theory of aeronautics and work on the ground in aviation, the navy secretary declared that he wanted the midshipmen to learn to fly.

"In the actual flying training," said Secretary Wilbur, "the physical factor will be taken into consideration. Some young men will be found physically qualified for training as pilots and others as aerial observers. Still others doubtless will be found to lack certain qualifications necessary for flying training and success although well fitted for duty on vessels."

WAR AGAINST CRIME, ASKED

New York Police Commissioner Tells International Police Conference to Cooperate.

New York, May 14.—Calling for world-wide cooperation in fighting crime Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, president of the international police conference, in an address Tuesday at the opening session of the third biennial convention, urged that nations "forget their mutual rivalries in a fight on a common enemy."

Representatives of the police departments of every civilized country in the world and of the larger cities in the United States and Canada were present. They numbered about 500.

Tracing the steady growth and influence of the conference, Commissioner Enright asserted the police problems no longer are confined to individual cities and countries, but are world wide in their scope.

"Crime no longer is a matter of simply local concern," he said. "Crime has become a matter of grave international concern, for the toll of the criminal, whether it be in human life, in human suffering, or in property loss, is becoming a serious problem affecting public safety, morals and economy, foreign and domestic."

Pointing out that the criminal class always is warring with civilized society, Commissioner Enright emphasized the importance of international cooperation.

EDUCATORS TO HOLD MEETING

Bloomington, Pa., May 14.—Plans have been completed for the two-day educational conference here, beginning Friday, when the superintendents, principals and their assistants in the public schools of northeastern Pennsylvania, to the number of between 250 and 300, will gather at the local state normal school for conferences to be conducted by Dr. A. L. Suhrie, professor of education at New York University; Dr. J. Paul Goode, professor of geography at the University of Chicago, and Dr. James H. Kelley, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania State Educational Association.

On Saturday more than 1000 of the school teachers in northeastern Pennsylvania are expected to participate in conferences during the morning and to attend a general meeting during the afternoon, when an organization will be effected.

The three conference leaders of Friday will have charge of the Saturday morning conferences, and Miss Jessie Gray, of Philadelphia, president of the State Educational Association, also will speak.

DOG'S LOYALTY

wolf hound, scenting trouble, snarled and barked at the would-be thief. Nothing the Confederate trooper could do to pacify the dog was availing and, rather nettled, he drew his pistol and shot eight times into the body of the dog.

Now, in bronze, an Irish wolf hound typifies the spirit of loyalty at the Father Corby statue for generations to come, while the cross on the monument signifies the faith of the brigade whose colors Father Corby blessed before it went into battle, and the shamrock and harp denote the nationality to which the men in the brigade belonged.

Mr. Stock recalls vividly how he polished officers' sabines during the first day's fighting for the opportunity of riding their horses to water. He remembers how he and his family moved out of their home on Chambersburg street when it became apparent on the first day that the Union troops were being driven back.

BASEBALL

Second game of season at home.

McSherrystown vs. Bendersville-Aspers

At Bendersville-Aspers field
Saturday, May 16
Game called at 2:30 o'clock.

Mr. Stock's family took refuge on the Clearfield man visited the barn where his parents and brothers were secreted during the fighting on the one of his trips back to Gettysburg second and third of July, 1863.

"The fellow thieves of the man swore vengeance. One night they caught the chief—that's what I used to call my father—caught him alone in a gambling hell in the cow town where the stockmen came to buy provisions. My father had gone there by appointment to meet a man—lured to his death by a forged note. He knew he had probably come to the end of the passage as soon as he had stepped into the place. His one chance was to turn and run. He wouldn't do that."

Moya, looking at the son, could believe easily this story of the father. "Go on," she nodded tensely.

"The quarrel came, as of course it would. Just before the guns flashed a stranger rose from a corner and told the rustlers they would have to count him in the scrap, that he wouldn't stand for a six-to-one row."

"Wasn't that fine? I suppose he was a friend of your father he had helped some time."

"No. He had never seen him before. But he happened to be a man."

The eyes of the girl were shining. For the moment she was almost beautiful. A flame seemed to run over her dusky face, the glow of her generous heart finding expression externally.

"I'm glad there are such men," she cried softly.

"The story of that fight is a classic today in the hills. When it ended two of the rustlers were dead, two badly wounded, and the others galloping away for their lives. The chief and his unknown friend were lying on the floor shot to pieces."

"But they lived—surely they didn't die?"

"Yes, they lived and became close friends. A few years later they were partners. Both of them are dead now. Sam Lundy—that was the name of my father's rescuer—left two children, a boy and a girl. We call the boy Curly. He was down at the camp fishing with me."

She saw the truth then—knew in a flash that the man beside her had run the risk of prison to save his friend. And her heart went out to him in such a rush of feeling that she had to turn her face away.

"You paid back the debt to the son that your father owed his. Oh, I'm so glad—so glad."

"Guessed it, have you?"

"Your friend was the thief."

"He took the money, but he's no thief—not in his heart. In England only a criminal would do such a thing, but it's different here. A holdup may be a decent fellow gone wrong through drink and bad company. That's how it was this time. My friend is a range rider. His heart is as open and clean as the plains. But he's young yet—just turned twenty—and he's easily led. This thing was sprung on him by an older man with whom he had been drinking. Before they were sober he and Mosby had taken the money."

"I am sorry," the girl said, almost under her breath.

He explained more fully. "Colter by chance got a line on what the kid and Mosby were planning to pull off. Knowing I had some influence with Curly, he came straight to me. That was just after the finals in the riding. We hurried out to find Curly. Well, we were too late. While we were looking for our friends so as to stop this crazy play they were going to pull off, Colter and I met the president of the bank. We had known him in the mining country and he held us there talking. While we were still there news comes of the robbery."

"And then?"

"We struck straight back to the corral. Our horses were there. The boys had ridden back, swapped them for their own, and hit the trail. Mosby's idea had been to throw suspicion on us for an hour or two until they could make their get-away. We rode back to the crowd, learned the particulars, and followed the boys. My thought was that if we could get the money from them we might make terms with the association."

"That's why you were in a hurry when you passed us?"

"That's why."

"And of course the sheriff thought you were running away from him?"

"He couldn't think anything else, could he?"

"How blind I was—how lacking in faith! And all the time I knew in my heart you couldn't have done it," she reproached herself.

His masterful eyes fastened on her. "Did your friends know it? Did Miss Joyce think I couldn't have done it?"

"You'll have to ask her what she thought. I didn't hear Joyce give an opinion."

"Is she going to marry that fellow Verinder?"

"I don't know."

"He'll ask her, won't he?"

She smiled at his blunt question a little wily. "You'll have to ask Mr. Verinder that. I'm not in his confidence."

"You're quibbling. You know well enough."

"I think he will."

"Will she take him?"

"It's hard to tell what Joyce will do. I'd rather not discuss the subject."

please. Tell me, did you find your friends?"

"We ran them down in the hills at last. I knew pretty well about where they would be and one morning I dropped in on them. We talked it all over and I put it up to them that if they would turn the loot over to me I'd try to call off the officers. Curly was sick and ashamed of the whole business and was willing to do whatever I thought best. Mosby had different notions, but I persuaded him to see the light. They told me where they had hidden the money in the river. I was on my way back to get it when I found little Bess Lander lost in the hills. Gill nabbed me as I took her to the ranch."

"And after you were taken back to Gunnison—did you break prison?"

"I proved an alibi—one the sheriff couldn't get away from. We had gilded proof we weren't near the scene of the robbery. The president of the bank had been talking to us about ten minutes when the treasurer of the association drove up at a gallop to say he had just been robbed."

"So they freed you?"

"I made a proposition to the district attorney and the directors of the association—that if I got the money back all prosecutions would be dropped. They agreed. I came back for the money and found it gone."

"If you had only told me that then."

"I had no time. My first thought was to tell my cousin the truth, but I was afraid to take a chance on him. The only way to save Curly was to take back the money myself. I couldn't be sure that Captain Kilmeny would believe my story. So I played it safe and helped myself."

"You must think a lot of your friend to go so far for him."

"His mother turned him over to me to make a man of him, and if she hadn't I owed it to his father's son."

Her eyes poured upon him their warm approving light. "Yes, you would have to help him, no matter what it cost."

He protested against heroics with a face crinkled to humor. "It wasn't costing me a cent."

"It might have cost you a great deal. Suppose that Captain Kilmeny had picked up his gun. You couldn't have shot him."

"I'd have told him who I was and why I must have the money. No, Miss Dwight, I don't fit the specifications of a hero."

Moya's lips curved to a sweet little derisive twist that was a smile in embryo. "I know about you, sir."

Kilmeny took his eyes from her to let them rest upon a man and a woman walking the river trail below. The man bowed and the westerner answered the greeting by lifting his hat. When he looked back at his companion he was smiling impishly. For the two by the river bank were Lord and Lady Farquhar.

One glance told Moya that her chaplain had made up her mind to drive Jack Kilmeny from the field. Lady Jim looked at her husband. He cleared his throat in some embarrassment.

"Mornin', Mr. Kilmeny. If you have time I'd like to have you look over some ore samples sent from our mine."

The American smiled. He understood perfectly. "I've got all the time there is."

Moya intervened again. "First let me tell you the news. Mr. Kilmeny has been freed of all suspicion in connection with the robbery. The money has been returned and the whole thing dropped."

Farquhar's face cleared. "Glad to hear it." He emphasized his words, by adding a moment later: "By Jove, I am glad. Congratulations, Mr. Kilmeny."

His wife added hers, but there was a note of reserve in her manner. Plainly she was not fully satisfied.

Eagerly Moya turned to the young man. "May I tell all about it?"

He hesitated, then nodded shortly. "If you like."

Her voice vibrant with sympathy, Moya told the story in her ardent way. Kilmeny said nothing, but the corners of his mouth suggested amusement. Something of humorous derision in his blue eyes told Farquhar that the Coloradoan did not take the girl's admiration as his due. Rather, he seemed to regard it merely as an evidence of her young enthusiasm.

Lord Farquhar shook hands frankly with Kilmeny. "We've done you an injustice. If I had a son I would want him to have played the part you did under the same circumstances."

His wife backed him up loyally but with misgivings. The character of this young man might be cleared, but that did not make him any more eligible. Her smile had in it some suggestion of the reserve of the chaplain.

"I'm glad to know the truth, Mr. Kilmeny. It does you credit. Your cousins won't be back to lunch, but if you can stay—"

"I can't, Lady Farquhar. Thanks just the same. I've got to ride up into the hills to let the boys know it's all right. We'll be leaving tomorrow to go back to work."

ARMOR BLANKS F & M NINE 2-0

Gettysburg Ace of College Baseballers Turns in Creditable Battle; Allows Five Hits.

Brady "Buck" Armor, Gettysburg's pitching ace, grasped the opportunity presented him yesterday afternoon; took the mound assignment from Coach Ira Plank of the College Bullets and blanked the strong Franklin-Marshall aggregation while his mates, assisted by Armor's two hits, tallied two counters in yesterday's contest at Nixon Field.

Working as relief man since the season opened, Armor has been called upon on two occasions to stem the tide of victory-waves against the Orange and Blue and on each occasion credited himself in masterly fashion.

Yesterday afternoon with F. & M. opposing the local tribesmen, Coach Plank called upon Armor to turn in a victory. The Bullet hurler stepped to the mound, gave the visitors five well-scattered hits and refused to permit a visiting player to reach third base. While he was about it, he breezed four batsmen.

The Lancaster Collegians called in to play thirteen veterans in an effort to down the Bullets but to no avail and they returned to their native haunts with a goose-egg to their credit.

This afternoon the Bullets are clashing with the Hanover Blue Ridge tribe, and on Saturday the Western Maryland varsity journeys here to do battle on Nixon Field.

"Why! He's Nothing But Skin and Bones" "Marry Him? Never"

"Quit kidding me, Agnes; when I get ready to land a man he's got to be a real man with plenty of good healthy flesh on his bones."

"Of course, I dance with Ed; He's a good enough fellow and I just feel sorry for him, but no skinny, hollow cheeked, spindle shanked lath is going to sail the voyage of life with me."

Cheer up, Ed—things aren't as bad as they look to you right now. Many hundreds of skinny, gaunt, emaciated men looked even worse than you do till someone told them about McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets (the new way to take Cod Liver Oil) and how it would put pounds of good firm, healthy flesh on their bones in just a few weeks.

Nothing like these health creating, weight producing tablets for skinny, underweight men, as thousands can testify. Start to take them today—60 tablets—60 cents at Peoples Drug Store or any real druggist anywhere in North or South America.

And listen: If they don't put 5 pounds of good flesh on you in 30 days, get your money back—that's fair enough, but be sure—very sure that you get McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—the original and genuine. Adv.

ADVERTISING PUT TO TEST

That worn-out question, "Does Advertising Pay?" is answered in Forbes Magazine. Two similar articles, one advertised and one unadvertised, were placed on sale in 100 stores. No attempt was made by store clerks to influence the decisions of purchasers. It was found that 87 per cent of the customers bought the advertised article, six per cent of them bought the unadvertised goods, and the remaining 7 per cent had no preference.

Even when the unadvertised article was priced lower, 60 per cent of the customers bought the ones which were advertised. Only 24 per cent bought the unadvertised articles.

There might have been a time when advertising was regarded as a donation to a struggling newspaper owner. This is true no longer. Business is business and a newspaper which has to be supported by donations is a failure before it starts, and has little excuse for existence. Business firms in the present day do not hesitate to make donations to charity and civic welfare, but advertising is far from being a donation with them. It is an investment which pays dividends. If it did not pay it would be stopped, and the fact that it is not stopped shows that it does pay.

The fact that a business firm makes a statement regarding its goods or service, and signs its name in an advertisement, is proof that it is willing to back up what it says, and the goods are more likely to be worth standing behind. The day of sand in sugar is past; a merchant selling inferior merchandise soon finds himself without any business. It won't stand advertising.

COMMUNICATIONS

Gettysburg, Pa.
May 13, 1925.

To The Editor, The Times:

A delegate to the Knights of Columbus convention, who happens to be a successful merchant in a town somewhat larger than Gettysburg, visited a number of Gettysburg stores while here,—as he does in every town he goes into,—looking for new ideas and suggestions of a practical nature to apply to his own business.

The writer asked him what impressed him most about Gettysburg stores and store service. He was reluctant to answer, but when urged he said he was surprised, and even amazed, by the patronizing attitude of both proprietors and clerks in the dozen Gettysburg stores he visited toward the customer. Without exception, he said, he observed the attitude of store clerks appeared to be that the clerk was doing the customer a great favor by waiting upon him or her, as the case happened to be.

"How the Gettysburg merchants get away with that form of service is beyond my scope of comprehension," he remarked. "Perhaps it fits the temperament of the people of this community, but in most any other town in the state, a store couldn't operate successfully over night where the same condescending attitude and patronizing air prevailed, as is assumed here."

This visitor was a keen business man and had no ax to grind. He liked Gettysburg and had only words of praise for the town and its people in every other respect. He was not a member of the "Anvil Chorus" by inclination or disposition. He was a typical booster. Hence his impression carried considerable weight and is passed along to the business people in the best of spirit for whatever

FLOGGING OF MAN IS DENIED

Newspaper Publisher Declares New York Man Merely Was Warned to Leave Florida Town.

New York, May 14.—A committee of celery growers, living in the town of Sanford, Florida, served notice on Benjamin T. Way, 74, father of "Pi" Way, former Yale and Giant pitcher, that he must leave town.

This was admitted Tuesday by R. L. Dean, publisher of the Sanford Herald, in a telegram to the New York World, denying the story here by Mr. Way that he had been flogged in the woods near Sanford and told to get out of town.

"Way has been trying for several years," wired Mr. Dean, who describes himself as a graduate of Yale, 1923, "to introduce spray for celery to local growers. One leading grower tried it for a season and found it worthless.

Suggest Trade Jealousy
"Spray used at present and recommended to growers by the United States Department of Agriculture contains some poison, but, when properly used, is harmless. Way, apparently, is sore because growers wouldn't buy from him, is said to have written many letters North advising friends and markets not to eat or sell Sanford celery, as it was poisonous.

"After advising him to stop letter writing a committee of growers warned him to leave town. Our people are unusually law abiding and lynchings and outrages of this kind are unheard of in this county. If Way was mistreated he should have complained to the county prosecutor, the chief of police or the sheriff's office. None of these know anything about the case."

ADMITS ATTEMPT TO BURN HOUSE

York, May 14.—Harvey C. Myers, 30, yesterday confessed to three attempts to burn down the house in which he lived in order to collect insurance to pay off his debts, according to police. He did not own the house, but had his furniture insured for $700.

On two occasions he put out the fire himself after starting it, but on last Saturday neighbors extinguished the blaze before any great damage was done, it is alleged. Myers, it is said, signed a confession in the district attorney's office. He was committed to jail without bail.

The house he lived in was owned by his mother. The arrest was made by Constable W. A. Wagner, a neighbor of Myers.

Why Not Enjoy Health?

Bethlehem (W. S.), Pa.—"After an attack of typhoid fever I was in a weak, nervous condition. I was reduced in flesh to 120 lbs. I had no appetite nor could I retain on my stomach the food I did eat. My rest at night was broken by nervous dreams and in the morning I felt too weary to do anything. I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery which had the reputation of cleansing the blood and driving impurities from the body. I found all this to be true in my case for I soon began to mend. I gained in flesh, lost all the tired feeling I had and could enjoy a good night's rest. Three bottles of the 'Discovery' did this for me and I am glad to recommend it as a fine tonic."—Mrs. John T. Price, 545 Spring St.

RESIDENTS OF RURAL DISTRICT LIVE LONGEST

Thirteen Per Cent More Deaths Per Hundred Thousand in Cities Than in 10,000
Population Communities.

Rural residents of Pennsylvania are longer lived than their city brothers, according to the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. There are fully 13 per cent more deaths per hundred thousand population in the larger cities than in places having less than 10,000 people.

Analysis of mortality statistics for Pennsylvania brings to light some interesting facts concerning the health of both the city man and the small town resident, according to the Foundation. There are almost three times the number of deaths from appendicitis in the cities than occur in the rural districts. Measles and heart disease are not as fatal in the outlying sections as they are in the crowded centers, and neither cancer nor diabetes are as deadly in the open spaces as they are to residents of cities.

Bronchitis and pneumonia do not take their toll in the rural districts to the same extent as in the cities.

Suicide in Cities
Death by suicide is a much more frequent occurrence in the cities than in the smaller places, and the same is found to hold true of homicide. Accidental deaths, too, are fewer in the smaller towns and in the country than in the bigger places.

The lower death rate of the rural sections of the state as compared to the cities is no doubt due in a large measure to the more normal, natural life that the rural resident leads as compared to the man in the large city, states the Foundation. And it is especially remarkable in that only three per cent of the country's rural residents are estimated to observe the fundamentals of health in the disposal of their sewage and the safeguarding of their drinking water supply. As rural health work is expanded, a big change may be looked for in the prevention of premature death and human illness as well as promotion of public health and economic savings.

SNAKE FOUND IN IRELAND

Dublin, May 14.—Notwithstanding the legend that St. Patrick banished all snakes from Ireland, one has been discovered in Dublin and is now on exhibition in the National museum. Snakes have occasionally been brought into Ireland from overseas, but they have never been known to breed here.

NEW MEMBERS IN SCHOOL LEAGUE

Representatives of the teams in the Central Pennsylvania Scholastic Baseball League will meet at the University Club, Harrisburg, Friday evening. The most important items of business are the applications of Lancaster, Lock Haven, Sunbury and Reading for membership in the league next year. Walter D. Reynolds, athletic director of the Gettysburg High School, will represent Gettysburg at the meeting.

With the addition of the four teams making application for membership, the league would consist of ten teams. Gettysburg, Harrisburg Tech, Lebanon, Williamsport, York and Steel-ton being the present members.

Some doubt is expressed as to whether the application of Reading will be favorably received, since the Berks countians withdrew from the league under strained circumstances. Some of the league officials are in favor of holding the membership to eight schools instead of ten.

The meeting in Harrisburg Friday is the annual spring meeting, and a full attendance is expected. The schedule for next year is expected to

$100,000 BLAZE IN YORK TUESDAY

York, Pa., May 14.—Fire originating in the garage of Charles Motter at noon Tuesday spread to the George W. Gilbert Planing Mill and caused $100,000 damage.

The planing mill, which is situated in the heart of the city, was partly destroyed.

Ten automobiles were consumed by the blaze. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The fire broke out at noon and spread to the planing mill of G. W. Gilbert, adjacent to the garage at Mason and Park alleys, in the heart of York's central section. The blaze started from an explosion of gasoline which Clarence Rahe, an automobile mechanic, was using to clean a motor.

Fire Chief Edgar C. Landes was burned about the face and head when he got too close to the flames in the burning building and was severely burned upon his left forearm when it came in contact with a red-hot pipe. Harry Frey, volunteer fireman, suffered a severe cut on his left forearm, from the wrist to the elbow,

WOMAN POET IS DEATH VICTIM

Brookline, Mass., May 14.—Miss Amy Lowell, the poet and sister of President A. Lawrence Lowell, of Harvard University, died suddenly at her home here Tuesday.

A paralytic stroke which came without warning was the cause of death, which occurred late Monday afternoon. Dr. Theodore Eastman and Dr. Charles Allan Porter were summoned and shortly afterward President Lowell arrived at his sister's home.

when the glass in the door of a sedan broke. He was assisting in an effort to get the flame-enveloped motorcar out of the building.

Has No Backache, No Bad Feelings
Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Drove Her Illness Away

Milwaukee, Wisconsin.—"I was in a badly run-down condition and I would get weak spells and terrible headaches. I felt so badly last year that I could not do any housecleaning. The minute I would lift or stoop it seemed as if I was going to fall to pieces. I told a neighbor how I felt and she said that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was surely the right thing for me. I took four bottles then and in the fall of the year I took three. I had been treated by a doctor but he gave me an iron tonic and that did not help me. It seemed that the tonic did not have in it what the Vegetable Compound did. That gave me the strength and ambition I needed and I have gained in weight. This year before I started to clean house I got four bottles of the Vegetable Compound and am taking it right along. I tell all my friends about it and how much good it does me. They can notice it because I have gained in weight. I weigh 118 now and do all my work myself again."—Mrs. EMIL O. BRANDENBURG, 651 37th Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

ADVERTISING OF CHURCHES URGED

Newspaper Is Best Place to Sell Religion, World Advertising Men Are Informed.

Houston, Tex., May 14.—There is no greater field for vital, stirring news than the church, and the church can find no better medium than the newspaper for advertising its wares and spreading the gospel, said the Rev. John T. Brabner Smith, of Chicago, in charge of secular press publicity of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in an address Tuesday before the church department of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.

The newspapers offer the best medium for reaching all the people, the non-churchgoers as well as the churchgoers, Mr. Smith declared.

"The two great bulwarks of religion are the human voice and the written word, the Bible," the speaker asserted. "The world will never be redeemed by the voice only, that is, the preacher. It will need the Bible, books and we believe that in the newspaper the coming generation will find, when Christianity is applied to the newspaper, a great apostle of Christianity."

"Realizing that the only way to secure knowledge and information was to ask for it from reliable sources, we sent a questionnaire to the managing editors of more than 200 newspapers with reference to church news, advertising and crime news, and how to accomplish a closer cooperation of the pulpit and press."

"The answers regarding church news showed that it is in good demand and more could be used if it was of the right kind, that is to say, newsy, safe, sound, sane, snappy, sensible and serviceable. Some editors said they would give the churches all the space they wanted; others that they could never secure sufficient real church news."

BETTER METHODS; BETTER SERVICE
WITH the best of modern equipment, more telephone lines in cable can be "pulled in" to the underground conduit plant today in 2 1/2 hours than could be done between sunrise and sunset fifteen years ago.
In the beginning, it was "all hands at the capstan." Then a pair of horses harnessed to the job. Next, a motor truck with winch and power take-off. Last, a tractor placed above the manhole.
Telephone construction, maintenance and operation are being advanced and speeded in a thousand and one such ways.
Invention and development from within are supplemented by constant search in outside fields.
An improved device weighing two pounds will often contribute more than one weighing two tons. A better soldering-iron, in the hands of an organization which solders fifteen million metal connections a year, counts big.
In every department of telephone work more ground is covered today than yesterday. Little of this work is seen by the public, except along the highways and on an occasional visit to a central office.
But the increasing volume of service, and the still faster increasing complexity it presents, is more than matched by the putting to work of countless creations of American telephone and mechanical genius.
